Hundreds of different war materials are being sent from Canada across the sea to help back up Canadian boys on the Italian and French fronts. Among the materials are shells such as those being supplied by the young Canadian worker in the above picture who has been busy at this job even since the beginning of the war. Canada's shell 'tilland shell manufacturing plants need more men and women to help the fighting forces deal the final blow. Thousands of workers are being recruited by Employment and Selective Service offices for the shell filling and shell manufacturing plants across Canada.

"Jet" Shelterbelt Roots

From observations made the Dominion Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Sask., on the growth of crops and trees adjacent to breaks and hedges, it is believed that the influence of the roots of the hedge plants and shelterbelts will be apparent over an area on both sides of the belt equal in width to the height of the plants and trees.

Chute Falls, Falls 3,000 Feet, Without breaking a bone

Mr. Joe Aiello plummeted 3,000 feet when his parachute failed to open, and yet escaped without a single broken bone. Tree tops broke the fall of the youth from the Bronx, N.Y. Doctors theorized that this feat he was unconscious when he hit the trees and relaxed when he landed probably saved his life. When he came to, Aiello said, "I was scared to open my eyes for fear I might see angels."

JOE CITIZEN SAYS

Some think the war is nearly through—some take a quite contrary view. Me, I prefer to wait and see, but with one viewpoint I agree, and that is we must carry on until the need for help is gone. Suppose the fighting all was done the peace would still have to be won and that, if I am seeing right, won't be a job done overnight. No, sir, we won't for many a day from warding rules get clear away. War's cost has certainly been steep and lasting peace will not come cheap. So dreams of good times let us wait and to our country's needs submit. Let's lend our money anyway, that's what we're asked to do right now, and personally, I just plan to lay in every bond I can.

Start Building Rail Equipment

Canadian railway shops now are getting back to the production of locomotives and rolling stock instead of munitions. A number of new refrigerator cars soon will roll out of Canadian National Railway shops and some big mountain-type locomotives are being built.
A brisk demand for railway equipment not only in Canada but in all countries is anticipated and it is believed a sizeable export market for cars and locomotives will be available to Canadian shops after the war.

When a man's shirt is so worn at the neck and cuffs that it can't be worn, there is still plenty of material to make a cotton dress or an apron. Where possible use the buttons or button holes down the front - it saves an hour's work. Two worn shirts of contrasting color can often be combined to make a smart cotton frock for your eight year old daughter.

PASSING

And The PERMANENT This Twentieth Century

The Matropolitan Life Insurance Company states this year: "The divorce rate has been increasing in this country for at least a half century, and at present more than one out of every five marriages is dissolved by divorce." No law of God is held sacred by present-day society. How much worse will He let this wickedness get before He judges it!

Hebrew Mission Spared

In one of London's many air raids an incendiary bomb dropped on the Hebrew Christian Mission, of which Mr. Samuel is Director. It came through the roof, and falling into the kitchen, and in falling struck a water tank. It caused the water to flood the kitchen and damaged the ceiling of the rooms beneath—but the water put out the fire! God evidently intended the Mission to carry on!

Europe as a Mission Field

Europe has approximately 500,000,000 people. If we deduct all the Protestants, who live mostly in a minority, Europe has some 25,000,000 others who may have heard an adequate presentation of the gospel. We still have some 600,000,000 non-Protestants. The number of people needing the gospel in Europe, therefore, is more than twice the population of Africa and more than twice the population of South America.

British Commanders in Chief

The following statement has been signed by the Commanders in Chief of the British Army, Royal Navy and Royal Air Force as a foreword to one of the Gospels published for British servicemen.

"We commend the gospel of Christ our Savior, for it alone can effectively mold character, control conduct and solve the problems of men and nations and thus make life what it should be."

"Faith in Christ the Lord, and loyal obedience to His will as revealed in the Bible, ensures peace of mind and brings satisfaction in service to God and man."

Signed: Admiral Cunningham, Admiral Veto, General Paget, Air Marshal Gossage.

Individual Righteousness

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has told his people "The Chinese nation had a long history of a very glorious civilization. No nation can ruin us unless we first ruin ourselves. If each one of us recognizes his own weakness and endeavors to correct himself accordingly, we will have no difficulty in removing any obstacle he may encounter. If we can do this collectively we can remove all obstacles confronting the nation." In other words, individual righteousness does not depend on national righteousness, but national righteousness can only be produced by the individual righteousness of the citizens.

"Rosie The Riveter"

Says Christian Victory: "A few years ago our nation struggled with the problem of 11,000,000 unemployed. At the same time we also had 11,000,000 women working. If these 11,000,000 women had gone back into the homes, making our home life what it should be, we might never have had a vast unemployment problem! Today Rosie the Riveter gets from $30 to $100 a week in the defense factory (and spends 75 percent of her wages on clothing, cosmetics and entertainment, according to statistics). It will be hard, very hard for these women to give up their job after the war. We predict a far worse depression is coming in a few years, when the backlog of consumer goods is caught up, because mankind refuses to follow God's plan that man should be the bread winner and women should be the home maker."

Rebirth of a Nation

One of the queerest stories to come out of war time Washington concerns a group of seven young men who have opened what they call "The Hebrew Embassy" there. A newspaper report on May 19, 1944, said:

"The Hebrew Committee of National Liberation have established themselves in the former Russian Embassy in Washington and announced the rebirth of the Hebrew nation after 1800 years, and have also made the first unofficial bid for recognition as one of the United Nations."

"Diplomatically, the Committee desire recognition as temporary trustees of the Hebrew national interests on a basis similar to that granted to the French Committee of National Liberation."

REVERSING BABEL

Basic English, a simplified vocabulary consisting of 600 English nouns and 200 or 300 verbs, has been recommended by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt as a means of international intercourse. Optimists hope that eventually the whole world may adopt it as a universal language, thus undoing the fiasco of Babel by which God put a linguistic barrier between the nations. It appears, from Zephaniah 3:9, that a day is coming when the Lord will restore a common language to the nations. What that language will be, however, no one can tell until that day comes, and it is questionable whether it will be Basic English or any other man-made tongue.

From a study of the Word of God, may I make this statement: In the present success of Russia's red army will continue until it has either crushed or brought about the surrender of the German forces, the latter of which is quite probable.

Prayers of a Child

Richard Deming, a 23-year-old fighter pilot from Ilion, N. Y., had been reported as missing in action in the Pacific on April 26. According to the Boston Evening America, Richard's 40-year-old brother Robert resolved to help in the only way he knew—by praying. Each night he knelt by his bed and asked: "Please, God, let us have a letter from Richard dated April 26." He reasoned that a communication written 3 days after his brother's official recorded disappearance would prove that the brother was alive.

At 11 a.m. on May 11 the postman stopped at the Deming home and tucked a letter under the door. The letter came from Richard—and it was dated April 26! Richard wrote that he was in a base hospital somewhere in China after suffering a fractured left arm in a crash landing.

At the time of the Russian Revolution, the Russian people were in a state of confusion. The Russian people were in a state of confusion. The Russian people were in a state of confusion.

RUSSIA'S Red Army

(By D. A. EDMONS)

The international subject today is the red army of Soviet Russia. It has become the savior of the present war, having brought to at least a partial stop, the murderous invasion of the German Nazis. Certainly we admire the courage and power of these Russian armies, which according to Scripture, will continue until they have crushed the Nazi regime.

Already the governments of the United Nations are predicting a large place for Soviet Russia in post-war politics. With the large part that Russia is taking in the war for world liberation, it is only reasonable to suggest that the communist government of the Soviet will have much to say in the reconstruction of the future world of which we live.

It is a known fact that the present Russian government embraces the doctrine of Bolshevism, or the more correctly, Communism. This communist government came into being in 1917 during the first world war, with a revolution in Russia, when Kerenski succeeded in overthrowing the Czarist regime and establishing a new social order. But his government was soon overthrown by Trotsky and Lenin, the latter whom the whole world recognizes as the idol of the Russian people, although he has been dead for a number of years. It was this man Lenin who once made the statement, "Even if there should be destruction of thousands of the earth's population, that the other quarter might have communism, the end would justify the means." From that day, Lenin, the leadership of Lenin, and later under that of Josef Stalin, the underlying plan of the Russian government has been to spread communism in the world, by whatever means might be necessary.

This is the underlying motive of the Soviet government today, and shall be until it is either realized or crushed. Communism has spread around the entire world. Here in America and Canada it has a strong hold on political minds, that most people realize, even though it has been bitterly opposed. With Russia taking a leading part in world affairs as she will, following this war, will realize the unhindered influence Soviet communism will have in the minds of men. In 1930 when Josef Stalin was being inaugurated, the communist party made the statement: "We have thrown the Church, we have burned the churches, and we will grapple with God in due time, and will bring Him down from His throne in the Heavens." It is these fighting motives that spur on the red forces today.

From a study of the Word of God, may I make this statement: In the present success of Russia's red army will continue until it has either crushed or brought about the surrender of the German forces, the latter of which is quite probable.

Now let us turn to the Bible and read the thirty-eight chapter of Ezekiel, and we shall find the future of this red army. Let us first note the names of persons and places mentioned in the first six verses, and see if we can identify these persons and places today. In Zechariah 14:2; Daniel 11; and Revelation 14 and 19, we are told that in the last days a great worldwide confederacy will be prominent on the earth, especially for its might and power and its vast armies. The names mentioned in Ezekiel 38 are identical with those of these other Scripture which speak of this great northern nation or league of nations. In verse two we read the words of the Lord to the prophet, saying, "Son of man, set thy face against Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy against him." Gog is a prince or ruler, and Magog is his land. Josephus, the historian, states that the Greeks called the Scythians "Magog". They went from Asia into what is now the south of Russia, giving as their southern boundary the Caucasian mountains. According to the revised version of the Bible, Gog is spoken of as the chief prince of Rosh, Rosh was the name given to the Scythians, from whom the modern

"My friend, I do not think that I would baptize you tomorrow, even if you asked me. In the first place, it is not I that baptize, but another. But the very first thing required is that you truly believe, and you do not believe now. The reward is only paid to those who are really and truly converted, deep down in their hearts. Thus the reward is paid instantly and without any questions. You then will no longer be rich and, if you have never been content, you shall be with this reward."

I confess, I made me feel dizzy. He spoke so calmly, even without the least sign of fear that I might think him a commercial, bartering in men's souls; he spoke in a matter-of-fact style, which impressed me with the possible "good things" that was in store for me. I saw myself possessed of a large amount of money, saw myself going to some school and paying much attention to him, so much so that I saw myself step into some large office and occupying an important position such as my heart's desire to possess. Then I asked:

"But, tell me, how much are you getting and how much, in plain figures, will I get?"

His face assumed a serious countenance. I saw his lips moving. He was about to disclose to me something of vital importance.

"Oh, my poor miserable being. Especially we of the Jewish race, so much despised, so much hated, so much persecuted in all the countries of the world. We were never allowed to possess real estate, land, homes, farms to work. We were driven to barter and to trade and look for our salvation to the accumulation of money and jewels. Not for the value or the love of possession, but for a possible and probable means of escape: to purchase our lives when they were threatened, to make our escape when liberty was taken from us. Money to the Jew is not gold, but the key to open barred doors, the stair which returned a life that otherwise would be extinct."

And here was money, easily made, a means which would enable me a forger, to quickly buy the English language, the lack of which prevented me from coming into the sphere which I so ardently craved.

And now he spoke, I hung on his lips. He would tell me plain figures.

The reward my friend, is great. Greater than an ever grasping Jew. If you will seek the Kingdom of God, His righteousness, then such riches as all the silver and gold, Russians derived their name. In the course of time, the name Rosh became Russia. So that the land of Magog is the identical place called Rosh, which was called Russia.

Then, we notice the names Meshech and Tubal. History relates that they were people who penetrated into southern Russian, and then spread into the northern part of the great empire. They became identified as the inhabitants of the Moeshi mountains, east of the Black Sea. They traveled into the Caucasus, where these people of Magog built a city and called it Moscow, which was later translated Moscow, Tubal translated Moscow, because Tubalok. And these today are the two great capital cities of east and west Russia.

think that we are being paid for baptisms or conversions and that we are not, rich, happy, the wrong impression among our Jews that we missionaries are paying for baptisms. I do not blame you but do you see, that, unless I make these things plain to you you would always be under the impression that we mean to deceive you, to take advantage of you? Our reward is in heaven. We work for God, and live only in the happiness of doing good and for others."

That is all. He said no more that time, and he did not need to say any more. I understood. Every word, a spoke was like a sword into my heart. Inwardly, I bled because of the shame I felt to have thought this man commercial when in reality, he was working for my good.

I liked his heroism, I liked his independence, his indifference to money and the money in general. He appeared to me, and at once there arose a great desire in me to be a man like he was; to be able to work as he did for the salvation of the soul of every young man, I resolved then and there to become worthy of such an office as he held.

His right, money could not bring happiness. The reward for his work was working. He was superior to the reward the world could give. Oh, to be able to penetrate the mysteries of faith, to be able to say to this man of the "Oh, my sins are forgiven these!"

It was time for the regular meeting and we went out into the hall where already more than 4000 Jews were gathered. Miss Busle occupied her usual seat on the platform and greeted me with a smile. These smiles trend to me, I began to look for them. I missed them all through the week, and like a man addicted to drink, I always hastened to receive them. They were balsam to my soul, and the light of my days.

Mr. Angel preached. He had only one message with many variations. It was the old story that Jesus of Nazareth was the Messiah of the world and that He was the King of the Jews. This was all one could hear. No matter where he took his text from, he would always, after some wandering, bring in the Messiahship of Jesus of Nazareth. Every time it was a new message, and every time it ended with an appeal that Jesus was the Jewish Messiah.

ABOUT THE THINGS YOU BUY IN WARTIME

The sugar situation is NOT sweet

FOUR-FIFTHS OF THE SUGAR CANADA CONSUMES HAS TO BE IMPORTED

This map shows where Canada, Great Britain and the United States get their sugar in the good old days of peace. Our three countries take practically all the exportable sugar from these major sugar-exporting areas. But supplies have either been cut off by enemy occupation of the country—as in the case of Java and the Philippines, or their production radically reduced by shortage of workers, as in the case of Hawaii, Porto Rico, Australia, Trinidad, Fiji.

ROLLING ON SUGAR

The war has brought some unusual demands on the United Nations' sugar pool. Vast quantities have been taken for making industrial alcohol used in the manufacture of synthetic rubber (tires, etc.) as well as T.N.T. and smokeless powder. For instance, the explosive to fill five 16-inch shells requires as much sugar as

Even the production of beet sugar in Canada and the United States has been drastically cut by labour shortage. In both countries the '43 sugar beet crop was forty per cent less than in '41. The only country to show an important increase is Cuba, where output had for years been deliberately restricted. But its increase has not been sufficient to offset the losses elsewhere—let alone meet the increased demand.

DO WE NEED MORE SUGAR?

A century ago the whole world didn't consume as much sugar as Canada does today. Our sweet tooth has been acquired in quite recent times. Sugar rates high for its energy value, but starchy food is a good substitute.

WE'RE LIVING ON OUR SUGAR CAPITAL

At the time of "Pearl Harbour" the United Nations had a reserve stockpile of about 3 million tons, but for the last 3 years we've been using more than has been produced—and shipping heavily into "reserve." Liberated nations will have to dip in too. Extra good crops could improve the situation, but greatly increased supplies are not in sight. If current consumption keeps up, we could be very short of sugar next year. We must do the utmost to conserve our supplies.

RATIONING WAS STARTED BECAUSE OF SHORTAGE OF SHIPS. IT MUST BE CONTINUED BECAUSE WORLD STOCKS ARE DEFICIENT

Outline Border Crossing Rules

An outline of border crossing regulations of interest to residents of this province has been issued by the Alberta Motor Association.

Border officials say the trouble lies in a confusion between (a) U.S. regulations governing entry to the United States; (b) Canadian regulations governing exit from Canada.

No specific documents are required for admission for visiting periods not exceeding 30 days, of Canadian citizens or British subjects who are domiciled in Canada. Each applicant must be able to satisfy immigration authorities as to his status.

If the visiting period be more than 30 days, the visitor must have a visa from a U.S. consulate.

All residents of Canada wishing to leave the country for any length of time require an exit permit issued under authority of the Foreign Exchange Control Board. These can be obtained in any chartered bank.

Urge Motorists To take care of Tires

There still is need for the exercise of conservation in the use of car tires, according to the Alberta

Motor Association.

In view of reports of certain pending releases of articles required exclusively hitherto for war purposes, there is a tendency in some quarters to anticipate that these may include such vital materials as fuel and rubber.

Federal officials continue to emphasize that there still is great need of all available fuel for war needs and there is no prospect of the supply for civilian needs being increased as long as supplies must go forward for the armed forces.

In regard to tires, it is recalled that rubber control officials have stated that it is unlikely that new tires for the average motorist will be available before late next year. This makes it evident that every care must be taken to prolong the life of old tires, and the elimination of all unnecessary driving.

Synthetic tires have shown themselves capable of satisfactory mileage if they are treated right. Recapping of tires also is playing a big part in stretching this country's tire mileage.

ARMoured CORPS

The amount of gasoline used by a Canadian motorist in one month's normal peacetime driving, would drive an armoured corps only 35 yards.

Lens Accurate to Hairsbreadth made in Canada

Some of the photographic lenses used in sweeps by the Royal Air Force originate in the workshop of the National Research Council, Ottawa.

Lenses up to six inches in diameter, suitable for taking pictures from heights of 20,000 to 30,000 feet, are manufactured in the laboratory. The amount of work that goes into one of these is unbelievable. A lens arrived at the laboratory as a number of blank pieces of optical glass, it leaves as a lens accurate to within one-hundred-thousandth part of an inch. Between the raw state and the finished product there's grinding, polishing and calibrating work of amazing precision.

Curves must be perfect to within a millionth of an inch, since any departure from a true sphere would cause blurring of the picture taken from heights at which reconnaissance planes usually fly.

Ex. Farm Swallows

Six young swallows hatched at the poultry house of the Dominion Experimental Station, Saskatchewan, B.C., were tag-banded in 1943 just before leaving the nest. A watch was kept for returning swallows in 1944. One swallow was seen with the metal tag-band, showing that at least one of the banded six returned to the place of its birth to spend the summer.

Mathematical genius found in New Machine.

Machines which can not only see and hear but also work out mathematical problems are being manufactured by skilled Canadians for use in the battles against Germany and Japan.

One dramatic example of the work that is being done is the predictor. This is an amazing device which aims an anti-aircraft shell at the spot where an enemy plane will be by the time the projectile itself arrives there.

As the experts point out, directing a gun to hit a moving mark means that complex factors have to be carefully considered. Height, speed, angular deflections, influence of air wind air temperature, barometric pressure, humidity, temperature of the shell propellant and the muzzle velocity of the gun all have to be taken into consideration. Without human aid, this instrument makes these intricate mathematical calculations within a split second and sends a solution electrically into the gun.

The actual performance of this instrument is all the more astounding in that the target may travel two miles or more during the flight of the shell. The only operations carried out by human hands is the loading of the gun.

The predictor is but one of the more than 250 artillery fire control and related optical instruments produced for the army in the Dominion. From the simple Murray range finder which costs but two cents, to the predictors which cost more than $5,000, the making of these instruments require special techniques and the finest workmanship.

Seventh Victory Loan

The objective for the Province of Alberta for the Seventh Victory Loan, the campaign for which opened on October 23rd, has been set at $43,500,000, said Fred E. Osborne, Chairman of the National War Finance Committee for the Province of Alberta, in an interview today. The objective in the Fifth and Sixth Loans was $37,000,000 in each case the new objective representing an increase of approximately twenty-five percent in the General Sales and Payroll Sections, and making the Seventh Victory Loan the largest financial undertaking ever accepted in this Province.

Asked to outline the reasons for this increase, Mr. Osborne stated that in previous Loans, the major requirements were for the training of personnel and providing a backlog of ammunition and supplies. Since "D" Day, however, the Armies of Canada have been engaged in actual combat, a much more costly phase of war than the preparation period. The tremendous quantities of supplies under such conditions is a continuous flow from factory to front, from beachhead to the front line. Only by having too much can there be enough, to guard against exceptional pressure at unexpected

Mr. Osborne did not believe that the expected collapse of Germany would at all lessen the need for the greatest financial effort of which Canadians are capable should chaos break out in Germany, an immense army of occupation would be required, and former enemy countries would have to be similarly protected. But the main reason was that the end of the European phase of the war would immediately see intensification of the war in the Pacific, the United States, and the United Kingdom, and the transportation of millions of men, and likewise millions of tons of equipment and supplies. Half way around the world, any feeling of complacency at this time due to the European situation would be most detrimental to our war effort, and it given effect to, would undoubtedly unnecessarily prolong the war.

The abolition of compulsory savings, the savings bank credits, an overtime bonus, full employment, farm income at peak never before reached in this Province and the way in which Albertans of all classes had measured up to their responsibilities in previous loans made Mr. Osborne optimistic that the higher objective would not only be reached but greatly exceeded. "In addition, our people are becoming more 'bond conscious' as the financial pages show previous loans holding at par or better," he said. Double Bank interest, which the bonds carry, makes participation in each campaign not only an act of patriotism but worthwhile from the standpoint of good business.

It is hoped that individuals from all walks of life, from whom the bulk of the subscriptions must come, will early review their financial position and be prepared to subscribe early. "The accepted slogan for the campaign 'Invest in Victory puts it all in a nutshell,'" he said.

W. D. Albright—A Tribute

Throughout Western Canada, W. D. Albright is known as the author of "Timely Hints from the Beaveridge Station." In the Peace River Block, he is known as a pioneer, a good farmer, superintendent of the experimental station, a wonderful host and a wise counselor. Few, if any, men in the Dominion Experimental Farms Branch have worked as hard as has Mr. Albright, and none has reaped a greater reward. The Beaveridge Station has grown out of his influence as a homestead and its influence is apparent throughout the Peace. His interest in the discoveries of agricultural science has never flagged and he has devoted his life to transforming these discoveries into more successful farm production and more attractive farm homes. Few men become great, because greatness can only be born from the union of talents and hard work. Mr. Albright has not "buried his talent." Farmer and professional agriculturists alike owe him a great debt.

As a result of hard work—perhaps too hard—Mr. Albright is obliged to rest for a period of three months. In the meantime, we, the admiring readers, will readily forego the pleasure of reading "Timely Hints" for a time, provided we can look forward to an early reappearance. We all gladly join in wishing him many more years of good health and of service to Canadian agriculture.

Demand on Canadian gasoline have increased tremendously since five years of war. Yet not one aircraft has been grounded, a ship held in port, or mobile equipment brought to a standstill because of a lack of petroleum products.

Canadian tanks cover many miles a day as they crash through weakening German lines and these land levitations like the one shown above can take 150 gallons of gasoline a time. Thirty cylinder engines make frequent refuelling necessary. This is but one of the many war machines that would be helpless and ineffective without ever present supplies of gas. For this reason gasoline must continue to remain "ubiquitous" scarce for Canadian civilians.
